I'm looking for a user manual, or at least information about connectors and jumpers. I just received a replacement board, a board from MGA that I haven't seen before. I don't have access to this board and it was installed on a computer that didn't have expansion slots. I can't find any on the MGA website and I can't find any information about the back. I can't find any information about this on the internet, I have searched and I would appreciate any help. Thank you!
