Setting Up the Plot You will be creating an interactive map page that uses various HTML tags. These tags, which are covered in detail in the next few pages, help define what you will create. This is important, because the finished page has to contain many elements that are not displayed until the page is loaded. The elements are hiding and only appear as the page is loaded. To get you started, let's take a look at a simple HTML map and then set up a plot that will serve as the foundation for the page. 1. **Open** __ **in your web browser**. If you are using Internet Explorer, right-click on the page and choose View Source. 2. Select the code that looks like this and copy it:

Like virtually every success story from the past 60-years of rugby, the Scotland player was also brought to the fore by injury. In this case, it was the breaking point that broke the World Cup dream for Andy Robinson's side. With Edinburgh in the ascendency, the Leinster man slipped in behind the wing to unsettle the Ireland captain. In one dangerous moment for the Scots, Ravenhill's flagship stadium was exposed as Robinson's side could not muster a repeat performance of what was on show in a memorable grand final. Alex Dunbar was wide on his first try as his side won 23-15 but the damage was done as Ireland wrapped up a well-deserved win. A brutal lesson in what a bowl of cherries can do to a side. Injuries and the Leinster star recalled from international retirement It's no secret that Scotland only have so many out-and-out talents capable of firing themselves into the global headlines but a spate of injuries has seen many of those players on the sidelines until they can prove otherwise. But a series of freak injuries - both physical and mental - have seen the back-up play out to the fans outside the new stand. Eric del Castillo is only on the fringes of the starting side after arriving in late 2013. He only went on to make three starts and only managed one starting appearance as a replacement. Jamie Bhatti's status as a key member of Robinson's squad is never in doubt but he played under Eddie Jones for Northampton and was lost to England in the 2012 final. A season-ending injury struck which saw him miss the 2013 Six Nations. Bhatti has been a long-term concern for the Scottish set-up which is why his return to the international fold is such a welcome sign. Elton Flatley was thrown into the deep end as a replacement for the injured Josh Strauss in the 2013 Six Nations. An impressive start saw him reward the coaches faith as he scored 12 points in only two starts with the boot. But he suffered a serious injury to his neck at the World Cup which saw him sidelined for over a year. The 24-year-old's recovery was slowed by some setbacks and doubts about his future career as a professional. In 2012, Richie Gray was brought into the fold to play for Glasgow's second team and the Scotland U-20s. He experienced an injury-marred debut for the Scottish U
