I have been to these conferences twice before and I have always enjoyed myself with the people of [...] The real estate world is in a state of flux as it goes through another cycle of "flipping" the market. The leader has been international banks and hedge funds pouring capital into U.S. residential properties...and they are buying up properties [...]The present invention relates to a "stretched" film for forming a filter package or envelope of tobacco or the like, particularly for a filter tipping machine. As it is well known, at the present time, non-cellular filters for cigarettes are produced by placing suitable porous filter material, such as a segment of a perforated paper or metal tube, onto a continuous, tubular, extruded web of thermoplastic film. The web of film is then folded over onto the web of the filter material, and the two webs are sealed together at the four sides of the package. Such process is described in Italian patents no. 575396 and 575397. In an alternative process, the web of film is placed on a second web of paper or cardboard, and the entire package is then folded around the film-to-paper web. Both of the above mentioned processes are suitable for the production of filter packages of which the filter material is a segment of a tubular paper or metal filter element. Known filter tipping machines comprise a continuous unrolling apparatus, which starts from a roll of continuous web of foil, and which unrolls the web and unwinds it so that it e79caf774b
