Cricket Live Score and News is a lightweight gadget that displays the latest news and scores from cricket games. It can seamlessly installed and configured by inexperienced users who happen to be fans of the English sport. Cricket Live Score and News Features: - Shows the latest news from ESPN Cricinfo.com as well as check out the latest scores. - Its summaries switch within the frame in a manner that resembles image slideshows. - Unfortunately, you cannot click some buttons to select a particular piece of information, but you can double-click any spot within the news frame to bring up a web page and read details regarding that particular cricket-based subject. - Cricket Live Score and News does not come with any configurable settings of its own but, thanks to the default ones provided by the operating system, you can make the frame stay on top of other windows, or adjust its opacity level between 20% and 100%. Why Solid State Is Inevitable The not-so-mysterious rise of solid-state memory is a major technological trend of the coming years, as increasing numbers of devices depend on non-volatile memories. By 2020, all memory will be either solid-state or the newest generation of hard drives, as reported in "Solid-State Memories Driven by Market Opportunities." Other impacts of solid-state will include the relatively low costs of memory and storage, the all-pervasive ubiquity of smartphones and cloud-based computing, the Internet of Things, consumer products, and the emergence of new forms of life in the Internet's on-ramp and off-ramp phase. The semiconductor industry, unlike the computing industry and the music industry, has not faced similar inertia or transition costs. The vast expense of fabrication—particularly the multi-billion-dollar production of memory silicon that went into the semiconductor—has kept the industry afloat. So, from a financial perspective, solid-state is a chance to make up for lost time. It's also a chance to switch to solid-state memories in chips that are still based on technology more than 10 years old. Research firm iSuppli estimates that NAND flash based solid-state memory will represent 69 percent of the global market by volume in the next five years. The transition to solid-state is happening much sooner than the previous life-cycle extenders that kept the market afloat, as ebooks began to overtake
