The Republicans do have the larger overall support, 49-46 I believe, than the Democrats, however that adds up to 70-plus in the House," Trump told reporters at the White House following the passage of a $1.3 trillion spending bill that now heads to the Senate. Here's what that means: Reality check: The Republican Party makes up the majority of the congressional vote, not Trump. That's the biggest misconception people have about the current political landscape. All Republicans work for Trump, and all Democrats work against him. That's it. Yet, even in this new era of supermajority Republican control of the government, it's important to note that we're not really seeing that throughout the full spectrum of what's happening in Washington. Because what's happening in Washington isn't dictated by party. It's Download game data: Download ELDEN RING Full Version you can with IDmages After download game is finished extract the content, move ELDEN RING folder where you extract game to IDmages.Pages Thursday, November 28, 2009 Addie had her first ever Dr. visit on Tuesday. It was full of laughter. I went through a similar rush of emotions yesterday. I had good news for the doctor, who is amazed that Addie can see really well without her glasses, and is impressed by her coping abilities. That's not a bad thing, right? We'll see. She's not about to wear her glasses around the house, though, so I'm not sure how we'll balance that. I worry that people will think she's not "right" without them. Today was the first time she had them on for me at all. Addie is fighting to communicate her needs, wants, needs, frustrations, and fears. She is beginning to talk in a language that has been stripped from us. At first we only saw "no!" at about once a day. Then "down" became the new "no." Now she says "no!" and "down" in the same sentence, and usually at the same time. It's both sweet and frustrating. I love when she expresses anger and frustration, but I hate it when she does it in front of the doctor or someone we don't know very well. She does the nonstop cry thing as a communication tool. Addie has begun to eat again, although with some dietary restrictions. We've even tried to get her to eat some food that she really likes...and thus far she's resisted. The doctor said that it can take a while for a kid to eat from an empty stomach. That was this year's "good news" announcement. I'm going to guess that this is probably only another two or three months away. Sunday, November 24, 2009 We had Addie's crib out again yesterday. The first night, she didn't seem too unhappy to be back in her Pack 'n Play. Addie also didn't seem happy in the bed with her. We were a little surprised. (Or, perhaps I should say, we *wanted* to be surprised.) It seems that having a crib always makes kids feel more secure. A bedtime routine also tends to help, even when kids are a little older.
