

Elden Ring is a fantasy action RPG developed by StoneWorks which puts you in the shoes of a spoiled boy who once served as an apprentice under a legendary hero, and you must grow up to become an Elden Lord. Cast into the mysterious Lands Between, you will become a humble adventurer. Your one way to earn experience points is to defeat monsters, and you can acquire a variety of powerful weapons and spells from the World Tree. As your development goes on, you will become a hardened warrior to overcome the gruesomeness of enemies and a powerful wizard to protect your people from a demonic invasion. Your one goal is to complete the Many Worlds quest, so that you can regain the lost power of the Elden Ring and become the Elden Lord that is destined to rule. The present invention relates to the field of data processing by digital computer, and more particularly to the field of creating a user interface for a digital computer. Existing digital computer displays, such as those which are embodied in flat-panel screens, are pixel-based, i.e., they present data to a user by indicating that each pixel has a given color. This type of display device is sometimes referred to as a "pixel-matrix" display device, in that it uses an array of pixels of predetermined size to form a picture of a given size. FIG. 1 illustrates a piece of pixel-based display 100. As shown in FIG. 1, pixel-based display 100 has a horizontal array of pixels 102. Each pixel in pixels 102 represents a pixel of a pixel-matrix display device. The size of each pixel in pixels 102 is determined by the pixel-matrix display device, and is fixed. When a display device such as display 100 uses pixels of a certain size, the resolution of the display device is thereby determined. The number of pixels per unit length on the display device is known as the pixel density of the display device. The resolution of a digital computer display device is typically expressed as a number of pixels per inch (ppi). For example, a typical resolution for a 640.times.480 pixel display device is 63,200 pixels per
