Leading the development of the game, Andrew Zimdars is the lead gameplay programmer, working with a team of four programmers. He is also FIFA Technical Director. He told Eurogamer: "The key principle we've used to make the game playable is to be more efficient - not as in it should make the game playable, but we've streamlined it a lot and made more of the core game logic accessible in the background. It also means we can put loads of systems and elements in the game that wouldn't have got in before." "Also, we're trying to give the player more knowledge of what's going on around him," he added. "We're trying to take advantage of the fact that your perspective is fixed by the camera and overlay movement on to your player model, which means we can create a lot of the information yourself." FIFA 22 comes to PlayStation 4 and Xbox One on Thursday. It is also coming to PC on May 29. There are more than 200 new career modes and all-new stories. Add-on on-demand streaming service Vudu has secured Series A funding from Fluid Global, the new name for the investment vehicle of former General Motors CEO Rick Wagoner and other venture capitalists. John Davis and Kevin Verrecchio will also join Vudu as board members. Davis is best known as the CEO of DriveWire, which he sold in 2014 to Google, making it the first third-party company acquired by Google. Until then, he was CEO of GM's GM Global Research and Development before leaving last year to launch DriveWire. Verrecchio, founder of AOL's Video Entertainment Group, previously held a number of senior positions at the cable television company prior to launching Vudu. He has also worked as an adviser for Yahoo, the National Basketball Association, and the National Football League. "We recently hired a team from Google and acquired DriveWire, which together with Vudu's visionary CEO Kevin Verrecchio and John Davis will be instrumental in our next phase of growth as we expand our product and service offerings," said Vudu's CEO and co-founder Richard Nieva in a statement. "John, Kevin, and their teams have been instrumental in helping us to grow our reach into new verticals, and we look forward to partnering with their expertise." u l a t e b *

Whether you're on your couch or out on the pitch, FIFA taps into the heart of football, one player at a time. Inspired by real-life gameplay, the most authentic football series ever comes to life. The Most Authentic and Real Football Experience • Up-to-the-second passing, dribbling and shooting as you live out your favourite moments on the pitch. • Skill Moves – added by real players and delivered through the controller – challenge you to become a better player in everything from shooting to passing.

- New defensive controls – pressing the sprint button closer to the player while defending, evading by heading the ball out of play, and using D-pad to dodge and step are used for defending.
- New detailed, animated goal celebrations – see who's won, scored or assisted before they even touch the ball.
- In-game lighting changes – no more having to switch on the lighting as the sun goes down or during the fireworks! Now you can see players, balls, crowds and even shadows at night and after the fireworks.
