FIFA 22 is the first console FIFA to use "full body player models" to create accurate representations of each player on-screen. The player models, on-the-fly animations, and reactions in-game are based on the collected real-world player movements. The game's new Authentic Player Motion System (APMS) uses the new motion capture data collected from the player models to add physicality and reactivity to every on-the-ball action, tackling, and sprint. APMS also handles an array of non-obvious, real-life player behaviors such as feinting, changing direction mid-tackle and performing famous one-on-one dribbling moves. APMS is also fully customizable to make it fit the needs of any game and/or player.

Unique Data Visualization

In previous versions of FIFA, vision data was only tracked for the ball in the real world; all on-the-ball actions had to be performed before the data was even collected. FIFA 22 introduces the new Spotlight Player feature, which collects a full data set for each player on-the-ball during a single football match. The data visualizations in FIFA 22 can now track all actions by every player on-the-ball. A new visual comparison tool is now available in FIFA 22 to enable a player to visualize, compare and analyze data from multiple matches for a specific player in real-time. This feature lets players easily distinguish personal trends and weaknesses over time. "FIFA is a game about so much more than simply kicking and passing the ball, so we are very proud that our gameplay innovations are now flowing through to the gameplay elements," said Oliver Bierhoff, FIFA Director of Product. "We're incredibly excited to bring the Authentic Player Motion System and the Spotlight Player features to FIFA 22, enabling us to deliver new ways to play, new ways to track and analyze a player's on-the-ball action. The new features will introduce new ways to experience the game and enable new levels of creativity," said Bierhoff. New Exotic Kit Designs In FIFA 22, more than 30 unique new player kits have been introduced and will be available to purchase via the FIFA Points system. Players can also purchase custom shirts and jerseys, and uniquely customize a new set of 4-star boots. Players will also be able to customize their

Fifa 22 Features Key:

- New to FIFA, Hyper-Motion Technology uses 22 suits fitted with motion capture sensors worn by real-life players, to account for the complexity and speed of the game and create lifelike movement that can't be achieved by using in-game animations. Until now, the only way to do this was to build individual animations from scratch, which would have pushed the team to create the game's 200 current-gen animations. With FMXT, we've used the thousands of recorded frames of data we have from the integration of the external sensor suits with the system to create the motions, which have been carefully tuned to the human body to provide accurate and realistic movement.
- Champions - Become just the latest edition of football's greatest club, complete with your very own football club to represent. Create the champions of champions with a full set of strengths, points, kit, owner and stadium. Then take the team to the championship of the world as the No 1 in the world. Or start at the absolute bottom of the ladder to climb the league tables and win trophies as you take your club through the whole game. FIFA Ultimate Team.
