The Game War Island Campaign System(TGWI:ACS) is a game mechanic that will be implemented and live for one week at a time. The Game War Island Campaign System will be instituted by providing a unique island that may have unique quests for the player to advance in the story. While on the campaign island the player will get a daily schedule with tasks that are meant to be completed. At the end of the week the island is erased and a new island is introduced as the new campaign. The end of the week is the last day that players on the same continent(s) and who are in the same party(s) will be able to fight in the same battle, unless one person fails in completing the battle objectives. The Island Campaign System is brand new idea and does not have any similar mechanics in other MMORPG's and this will be explained later.

Requirement system: We believe that this is important to the TGWI:ACS. Because we want this game to remain a cooperative experience. Requirement

1: The game must remain as a cooperative experience. This means that the player who completes and completes the daily quests on the island should be the one who will receive and advance the quests. Requirement 2: Players will be able to open the daily objectives that the player has failed. Requirement 3: The Island Campaign System will remain: 1. Island until the end of the week 2. Never appear after the week is over. With this being said: Anyone can start as a player and reach level 10(With a MAX of 10 players who play). Every player will start with an end level: 1100 Levels: At level 10(per character) 1st month: 1 2nd month: 2 3rd month: 3 4th month: 4 5th month: 5 6th month: 6 Level points: The character will gain levels and each level will be replaced by 50 points. When the character reaches level 10 it will gain 100 points. Level cap: 1102 Level 10 Points: 100 Level 10 Points: 150 Level 10 Points: 200 Level 10 Points: 250 Level 10 Points: 300 Level 10 Points: 350 Level 10 Points: 400 Level 10 Points: 450 Level 10 Points: 500 For now I hope this all is clear and understandable, so

Character of musical instruments. Influence of the civilization. Historical feature. Development based on the practical things. Technique which is based on the melody. Instruments and Their Use in a Country Instruments Instruments are called musical instruments and they are poems in the world. Instruments can be properly understood and well known through works which make the general public clear of their true usage. Musical instruments are instruments which form sound with repeated strikes. Musical instruments range from simple percussion instruments to more complex and percussive instruments such as the flute, clarinet, horn, trumpet, drum, piano, and guitar. The major parts of any instruments are the head, the body, and the feet. The head serves two purposes, 1. To amplify the noise of the sound produced by striking the instrument. 2. Enlarging the frequency of sound. The body supports the head of the instrument which is called the proper head. The feet of the instruments serve for the support of the instruments. They also can produce a noise. According to the influence of the civilization and the population, the usage of the instruments is affected. John Fossey John Louis Fossey (September 4, 1884, Albany, New York - August 31, 1965, Waltham, Massachusetts) was an American novelist, essayist, travel writer and biographer. Life Educated at the Sheffield Scientific School of Harvard University and at Howard University in Washington, D.C., Fossey was a rare one among African-Americans at Harvard in the early 20th century: An essayist and reviewer, he was influenced by Arnold Bennett, Gertrude Stein and the Impressionists, and in his work displayed the influence of early Modernism. He wrote articles for such literary magazines as The Bookman, The Bookman Review, Kenyon Review, and the Atlantic Monthly. In 1925 Fossey took a position at the University of Iowa, where he worked for a time as a librarian. He moved to New York City in 1926 and published three volumes of essays: He joined The Nation in 1928 and contributed to it sporadically for the next thirteen years. He also contributed to the Atlantic Monthly and The Nation (1928-1932); the Saturday Review of Literature (1932-1939) and the New Republic (1929-1940). He collaborated with Theodore Dreiser on the latter's Modernism in Fiction (1932) and wrote the libretto to Dreiser's 1932 opera An American Tragedy. In 1929 Fossey joined the faculty of the University of Connecticut as a visiting professor. He resigned from the university in 1932 and worked as a freelance writer for the next three decades, becoming a
