When I saw the picture, that was the exact moment when I knew: I am a student, I am going to go to that university, and I like dogs. A little while later, I was a student. I used to go to school with this dog, it was my friend. He was the friend of all of the students, my friend. Student/Lecturer Relationship I am a student in London and I have been a Lecturer at a University in the Philippines for three years. I work part-time, so I am not a full-time lecturer. I wanted to study because I was passionate about what I was doing. It was the passion that was the driving force, whereas in my case, the money was secondary - even though I have been very well paid. I did a course in broadcast communications and I left there in order to continue my studies. In the first year, I did a full-time course, but I was not particularly interested in completing the course because I wanted to stay in the Philippines. I had lost the drive to study after the first year because of work. My career in the Philippines was very well structured. After the first year, I had the choice to do an MPA course, which was like an MBA, but they had a Master in Communication. I accepted that offer and continued my studies there, which was the best decision I ever made. I thought that it would be so easy to get a job, but it was a completely different story. The best job I could get was a lecturer, and it was a very low paid job. The university appointed me as Lecturer, and they had given me these three students. It was tough because I had not expected to be in a position of leadership. d0c515b9f4
