It's true that "insight" is true self "insight" comes from meditation. But the term "insight" comes from a Sanskrit word meaning "to go to the truth" and, as La Mer explains, the Pali roots of the term "insight" reflect a tradition in which transcendence is the point. "Transcendence," says La Mer, "is the pure seeing of the self-transcending awareness of form in form, and transcendence brings a "inner joy." So what's the difference between that inner joy and the joy of nirvana? The difference, La Mer says, "lies in the fact that nirvana is not a worldly product. It is not produced by human will." I think, I think I'm all alone, here in this garden.

Kellyanne Conway said Wednesday that President Trump's recent firing of FBI Director James Comey "comes in the midst of a lot of other things" but reiterated that Trump has the "absolute right" to do so. "There is nothing wrong with his position. He's made his case. He's made his case in classified testimony. He did not leave the FBI voluntarily," Conway said on CNN's "New Day." "He's actually said that he wants to stay, and there are people who want him to stay. He's said there's nothing wrong with his position. The president has the absolute right to do what he's done.... He doesn't have a crowd of people around him. This comes in the midst of a lot of other things, but the president has the absolute right to do what he's done." The latest developments came after Comey told the Senate Intelligence Committee in a closed hearing that he didn't think Trump was at risk of being blackmailed by Russia. Comey also said that Trump had asked him to drop the investigation into former national security adviser Michael Flynn. Trump on Tuesday evening fired Comey, which prompted the Senate Judiciary Committee to request an explanation from Attorney General Jeff Sessions. In his letter
