Own a chunk of the Iron Realm through the purchase of this DLC and you gain access to this new unit. Thorek Ironbrow: Wielder of the Gromril Fist, master of explosive weapons. Ruling over the weapon-shops of Karak Azul with a Gromril fist, Thorek Ironbrow is a Master Runelord of the old school and is feared as much by his young apprentices as by his enemies. He is obsessed with the recovery of lost Dwarfen relics, and with them the lost knowledge of the ancients. As a legendary Lord, Thorek Ironbrow leads Ironbrow's Expedition in his quest to recover the relics and help restore the Dwarf Empire. Thorek can also combine resources at the Anvil of Doom to craft powerful artefacts for his forces. Other Rulers This unit is added to the ranks of any player that owns a copy of Total War: WARHAMMER II. The Stone Lord Thorkalak has returned to Karak Azul to rule over the city as its new overlord and royal seat. In addition, new administrative details have been added, including the Governor's office, a new settlement, the Wildmarket and a range of other new buildings in which players can create a new base. A new Order for the Dark Elves has also been created to unite the fallen Elves of the Darklands under one banner. This DLC also includes a new playable race, the Khazaji, famed for their martial prowess and fierce fighting abilities. "Seeds of Friendship" is a cozy, fable-like story full of surprises and humor, with elements of adventure and action. During his travels, Tadeo the traveler discovers a town overgrown with weeds and marmots and decides to get rid of them in order to make the village more inhabited. The presence of children in the world appeals to Tadeo and he feels like he is not alone in the world, as in the faery tales that he used to read as a child. Instead of goblins, rabid dogs, and ghosts, Tadeo finds in this world a pair of children who, in spite of being separated, have grown up to be a pair of neighbors. With the help of the plants that grow wild in the village, Tadeo can take on the task of saving the children and ends up getting entangled in a game of cat and mouse, where he not only meets some old and new friends, but also some unusual and unexpected elements. This story is very well described and the characters are well-researched. You will enjoy spending time in this immersive and unique world. Do not wait to download this game! The gameplay mechanic has been altered so that it feels more like you are playing the sport than you are just flying through a golf simulation. You don't have to hit the right angle and power for your discs to start flying like in a golf simulation. Simply pull back on the right analog stick (up by default) to throw, and when you see the animation start up you can start throwing. You can adjust the disc power in the settings screen. If you don't want to adjust the power, you can choose from a variety of disc types. Improved Flight Mechanics Every shot you take, whether a drive, fade, or curve, has a unique animation. Pulling back on the stick causes your disc to rotate and fly into the basket and release. You can also hold down R2 to power up your throw, but you can still pull back on the stick to fly as well. If you tap A, you can now flick your disc at the basket for a high speed drive. This works the same as using the red circle on the right analog stick. The disc can be pulled back and flicked at the basket for a high speed drive. When using the disc, you will now see a visual guide showing you when the disc will enter and leave the atmosphere. Pulling back on the stick will cause the disc to rotate and start flying. Once the disc leaves the atmosphere, it will go directly to the top or bottom of the screen and fall to the ground. In other words, the disc will start flying when you release the stick. The disc will start flying when the stick is released. You can now flick your disc at the basket for a high speed drive. Improved Shots Serve + Pass: You can now "serve" a drive to the next person on your team (or to yourself if you are on the opposite team). Simply hold A to start the serve animation, and the other player will see the disc in the air to their left. You can only serve from a valid tee shot location. For example, a player can serve if they are on the backside of a par 3, but not on the backside of a par 5. The Disc can start flying and landing when you release the stick. You can now flick your disc at the basket for a high speed drive. You can now returns to another children's toy's packaging. I know a lot of readers buy this and other MP remote controls for their kids. Maybe some of you Tiger Striker owners drop by and share your thoughts about this amazing remote control toy with other TCS fans. Anyhow I just want to know if you have got a extra hand for the Tiger Striker MP050 remote control toy? I sure had two excellent sets when I was a kid: I know there are many good stuff from the Tiger Striker series and I'm the biggest fan of this remote control toys. The Tiger Striker has a nice battery life time and has cool collector features like hard to find parts on them. Any Tiger Striker collectors here? Let's talk about Tiger Striker MP050. I have a set of MP050's. Both are about 10 years old, and were both in original boxes. For me, it's just a fun remote control. I would grade it relatively low on the creativity scale. They are probably not really needed by any adult now. I use the one that's yellow to play with my daughter. They were included as kids (4-8) toys (they probably originally were late at night/nightclub toys), but are not really needed because they're backlit. Also they're a bit loud (they're still too quiet for adults). :D IMHO there's not really anything special about them as far as creativity goes. I think they're not that rare, but at $2.25 per set, they're probably best left to collectors. I would say they rank in about the same area as Tinker Gears; for the same reason. If you just want a plastic toy to collect though, there are better options. Cool concept, but not that special. By the way, the MP050's have stuck with me for longer than my usual 10-15 years. A fourth model of the MP050 series, I also own but don't use much and am keeping it as a spare. The "gold" colour version, quite bright and seemed like a bit of work for an kids toy, but it seemed to sell with kids who were targeted. I believe it came with an add on laser. Question of what the implication of the word "BAL" on the packaging was. Re: Tiger Striker, MP050 I now own two sets of MP050's, but
