Their sound has been compared to bands such as The Horrors, Muse, The XX and Alt-J. They came together after the sudden death of their friend Alex Southin, and went on to gain critical and fan acclaim, including playing at the Glastonbury Festival in 2019, along with other notable festivals such as Brighton and Reading. History Hello #madness was formed following the sudden death of Alex Southin, guitarist for Sheffield band Peter & the Wolves. Southin's death occurred in May 2017, and the band was formed by his brother and bandmate Lee to pay tribute to him, initially as a solo project, before being invited to play their first show at the Kendal Calling festival in June 2017. Members Alex Southin – vocals, guitar, songwriting (2016–2017) Lee Southin – drums, backing vocals (2016–2017) Claire Westmeath – bass, backing vocals (2017–present) Benny Byshak – keyboards (2017–present) Discography Studio albums Remnants of a Public (2018, self-released) Lamentable (2019, self-released) EPs Introducing The #Madness EP (2017, self-released) The Deluxe Edition EP (2018, self-released) Singles Awards and Nominations References Category:English indie rock groups Category:Musical groups established in 2017 Category:Musical groups from Stoke-on-Trent 595f342e71
