nibel's methods standards and work design 13th pdf 118lkjh niebels methods standards and work design 13th pdf 118lkjhMicroRNA miR-125b-5p acts as a tumor suppressor in prostate cancer through targeting Sox9. Increasing evidence suggests that microRNAs (miRNAs) are involved in prostate cancer (PCa) development and progression. The role of miR-125b-5p in PCa has been rarely reported. In the present study, we found that the level of miR-125b-5p was much lower in PCa than normal prostate tissues. Overexpression of miR-125b-5p in PCa cells could significantly inhibit the growth of PCa cells in vitro and in vivo, and suppress PCa cell migration and invasion. Bioinformatics and luciferase assays revealed that the 3'-untranslated region (3'-UTR) of Sox9 was directly targeted by miR-125b-5p, and the levels of Sox9 were negatively correlated with that of miR-125b-5p in PCa. In addition, overexpression of Sox9 abrogated the inhibitory effects of miR-125b-5p on PCa cell growth, migration, and invasion. Taken together, our findings indicate that miR-125b-5p exerts tumor suppressive effects on PCa through targeting Sox9.Q: randomly generate half of the elements in an array each time until a specific number has been reached I'm currently trying to fill an array of five elements completely with random numbers between 0 and 1, then combine the first two together to make a three element array which I then use to feed to a websocket. I've found a couple of other threads that mention things like permutation functions and shuffle, but they always take in a random value from 0 to 1 so the numbers will always be spread out over the total range. I need them to be evenly spread between the full range. I also understand how to use Math.random() and Math.round() on their own to get a number between 0 and 1 - this is the part I'm currently stuck on. This is the code I have at the moment: var roster = new Array(5); routes.forEach(function(route) { roster[route] = new Array(5);
