Q: ASP.NET MVC -- how to access data from the currently logged in user? I have an ASP.NET MVC2 web site that I'm building. I need to be able to pull details (including potentially sensitive) data about the currently logged in user from within the database. Basically, the goal is to not hard code the site's tables and views - we need to use one set of the tables and views for all uses. The documentation on the ASP.NET site shows that there are a few Membership classes out there. I was wondering if there's a consolidated example out there to point to? Thanks! Addition In the past (at least in an ASP.NET site) membership providers are wrapped in their own classes (e.g. Membership) and the AccountManager can provide the current user. The membership classes and the AccountManager are examples of dependency injection - and thus, given a concrete AccountManager, I'd assume that I don't need to do dependency injection of the MembershipProvider classes in order to get at the current user. Am I correct? A: I would suggest the use of RoleManager instead. Here's a code sample from my current project: var user = Roles.GetUser(User.Identity.Name); Also, here's a link for your sake regarding authentication in MVC (asp.net). A: We are developing a system which will have these requirements: The current logged in user's details The ability to get details about a group of users Each user must have at least one group The same user must have the same group throughout our system so

"The isles are locked" – The game player gets the feeling to be forced to work to earn something when opening the game. The gameplay feels similar to "Pieces of Eight". But it is as good as it gets, because when you open the game for the first time and don't know anything about the gameplay, you will learn very fast how to play the game. Now about the gameplay itself: When you first open the game, you get a hint of what to expect from it. As soon as you start playing the game, you will understand how it works. In a very short amount of time, you'll get the "Pieces of Eight" feeling when you open the game. What makes the gameplay of "The isles are locked" unique is the addition of game features that make gameplay ever faster, more action-packed and more challenging. When you open the game for the first time, you get one isle. But when you clear a level, you get another isle that is unlocked. The more isles that you unlock, the more isles that you get at the beginning of the game. You are free to choose the number of isles in which you want to start. You can play on 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6 isles. But all you have to do to unlock an extra isle is to clear one of the levels. The isles in "The isles are locked" are presented in a 3D environment and are random. The isles all have their own unique artwork and background music. You can turn off the music. If you're having trouble getting into the action, you can turn off the 3D effect and play in 2D, and still enjoy the gameplay. The isles in "The isles are locked" contain 56 levels, but on the 7 isles of different size, you will unlock around 16 levels. There are 38 different achievements to be found in the game. The game contains 100 levels. The game contains an auto-save function. Experience in gameplay The gameplay is fast and packed with different levels and game features. Every time you clear a level, you get an isle that is unlocked. When you clear a level on level X, you get a bonus of an isle on the same level. You can open 6 isles, open 7 levels or 8 levels.

What's new in Burning Faith:

Released September 1, 2015 9/2/15 Wow, 11 years and no update? Yeah, that's a long time for me to be putting updates out there. The point of this one is I didn't have many free time to put into it, so I just put it up right away. I'm playing a new app called Fantasy Grounds, and it's free! It's pretty good, except for the fact I'm missing a couple of champs. Oh well, game on! EDIT: If you don't know how to use this app, please refer to the game's entry, or posts on my Devlog thread. Or just go to YouTube for a quick tutorial. So long as you're reading the text descriptions, you'll be fine, I promise. And the entire world has a small budget, so please feel free to look at older updates for a better idea of how the game works. I'm not above cutting out something for time management. Also, many of the assets may not load and are only a work in progress, so don't get your hopes up. Open Theatre You may wonder what this is. I actually created two custom creations for this, both produced by Unit8. They are concept and design tools that do everything custom content needs for you. No more making units and purchasing them. Custom fighters, custom healers, custom, everything. Think of this as a basic graphic transfer kit if you will. It is actually made in Marvelous Designer where you can fully design your units and characters. One of which is an NPC called the Barbarian. All NPC's are designed based on yours. Unless I pointed you to them in another way. This would apply to fighters and healers, as well as the assassins like Akira. The Warrior would accept a Champion, but the Champion wouldn't accept any fighters nor healers. Just fighters and healers. The credit where this is as cool as it gets. The Barbarian can fight as a warrior or as a brawler. Run around decked in a set of old west wear or a ninja warrior outfit, but any body type is fine. The fun will be in the customizations like the recipes, and the animations. More to come with it in place, but for a broad base, the Barbarian is a winner. Champion's Update Fantasy Grounds version 0.8.5 Changelog Champion updates! Lots

WHO WE ARE: We are a Husband and Wife (Programmer and Artist) Indie Game Developer team, called Cinderwing Games! We have spent the last 5 years honing our skills to be able to create our first official game. We have 2 kids and 2 full time jobs, so we usually work on games after the kids go to bed, between 9pm and 2am every day! It's hard, but this is our dream to be Indie Game Developers and we will make it happen! Cinderwing is a name we came up with by combining Cinderellas Cinder and Astrals Azure, so you can call us Cinderwing Astrals Azure :) We have a love for anything related to platforming or RPGs, and we also like to throw some action into that mix! WHAT WE DO: - Program the art and the gameplay, making sure we are aware of all the details of the game - Art! We love to make unique hand-drawn graphics (coming from a 2D background, it's an advantage
