Adobe Photoshop is a powerful photo retouching and graphic design software tool released by Adobe Systems (formerly Adobe Systems Inc.). It was developed by Harold Johnson, Daniel Fitzpatrick, and Brad Howley in 1986. Today it is widely considered to be one of the best digital-imaging software tools in the world. Although Photoshop is bundled with Illustrator, this software is often used more than Illustrator by the creative content industry. The software was first introduced in February 1989 and since then has been updated continuously. Version 2.0 was available as pre-release software and was later fully released in 1992 as Photoshop 3.0

Uterine smooth muscle activity and motility during parturition in the horse. Uterine motility and smooth muscle activity were recorded in 14 mares near term. Smooth muscle activity and motility were also examined in 11 mares at 2-3 weeks before foaling to assess the extent of pre-foaling uterine involution. For the latter evaluation, a continuous recording of auscultatory sounds was performed over a 10 min period. The dominant uterine sounds at the time of foaling were characterized as maternal "crying" sounds and of foaling sounds. Normal second stage of parturition was found in the 14 mares studied near term. Transition to first stage of parturition was recorded at a mean (+/- SD) time of 221 +/- 28 min and lasted for a mean of 71 +/- 16 min. Profuse activity (including frequent contractions) of the circular muscles was observed during the onset of parturition in 12 mares. At the moment of foaling, the circular muscles were as relaxed or only slightly active in 8 mares and were extremely active in the other 4 mares. The transition to first stage of parturition was preceded by a continuous, rhythmic increased activity of the circular muscles as compared to the conditions before foaling. Similar results were observed in the 11 mares examined 2-3 weeks before foaling. In all cases, the beginning of parturition was accompanied by the onset of myometrial contractions which were active and repetitive. When foaling sounds were noted after 30-60 min, the contraction frequency was very low. The results indicate that the mare near term has a competent myometrium, which activates in response to mechanical forces applied on the uterine wall. This myometrial activation is similar to that which is associated with parturition in the cat and the cow.Q: ORACLE SQL "Select Distinct Rows" I want to fetch results from oracle table using sql. The problem is that there are multiple combinations of data in table such that should be fetched. The query would not fetch duplicate rows since they have different "UID_ID" and also "added_date". The only constraint here is column "Added_date" has to be first created date otherwise "Added_Date" would have been replaced to null. Table in order to have no duplicate rows looks like this. UID_ID added_date 1
