1. Technical Field The present invention relates to a connector connected to a pad of an IC card to be connected to a reader/writer, and a connecting method for the IC card. 2. Description of Related Art Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 2012-28175 describes a connector connectable to a pad of a contactless IC card to be connected to a reader/writer. The connector comprises a first connector housing in which a first terminal is accommodated and a second connector housing in which a second terminal is accommodated. The first terminal and the second terminal are respectively connected to the first and second terminals of the IC card. The first and second connector housings are formed with a connecting portion to be connected to each other. When the first and second connector housings are connected to each other, the first terminal and the second terminal are in contact with each other. An electric power is supplied from a power source provided in the reader/writer to the first terminal and the second terminal connected to each other. If the first and second connector housings are not connected to each other, even if they are connected to each other, the first terminal and the second terminal are not connected to each other. A circuit disposed in the reader/writer is not operated until the first and second connector housings are connected to each other. Therefore, if the first and second connector housings are not connected to each other, an unexpected trouble occurs.I'm an Android developer from New Zealand. I'm currently a student at the University of Canterbury and a Senior Software Developer at a Government backed startup in Canberra, Australia. I started this blog in my early 20's after finding myself working in the public sector. I was one of those oddities in the 80's who knew how to code, and I wanted to share my experience to help others navigate their career paths in technology. This blog is a mixture of my projects, observations of the industry and my professional journey. I hope it is useful and insightful.Q: Facebook Graph API, how to get the friend's message I am trying to get the message string that my friend sent me, this message is only display in website, not phone.
