Key Segment Analytics: Fleet Management The goal of any fleet management system is to provide visibility into your fleet and spot problems before they become issues. Can you track maintenance costs, sell products, send messages, collect payments and track the location of assets? If your fleet includes cars, trucks, vans, motorcycles, RVs, small boats and heavy equipment—and you need to keep track of all of them—you might have been using a variety of systems that have serious performance and usability issues, or even not kept your data in one place. In this major transition to “post-predigital,” it’s time to look for a platform that incorporates many of the following features: Unified support for both fleets and fleets and drivers. No more buying two separate products. Ability to exchange data between mobile devices and the service provider. Ability to add reporting and analytics to problems, and one-stop solutions for servicing. Ability to report on all assets and activities in a single system with auditing. Analytics on travel time, fuel usage, driver work shifts, and costs by location. A visual interface that doesn’t assume you know how to read a computer. Real-time reporting and analysis for problems. Mobile app that works well on the road and at the dock, with no more waiting around for scans of printouts. And that’s just the beginning. Learn more about Fleet Management Services.
