By "monitor", I mean that I'd like to see how much space is being used at a particular point in time, using a command similar to du -sh./ to get the disk usage of all files in a directory. As far as I can tell there is no command like du -sh to get disk usage, so I was looking into other ways to accomplish this. I've seen that GNOME has a tool similar to this, but I have a question as to how to get a rough idea of disk usage over time on a terminal. Is there a way to monitor sda disk usage over time and produce an output similar to the following: File / Folder Disk Usage [BarChart] 2011-09-16 [sda, 24GB] [LineChart] [] 2011-09-24 [sda, 24GB] A: You can use the command df with the -k option to show disk space usage by file or by file and directory in the following format: 6d1f23a050
