If you have any problem please let us know so we could help you to solve it. LULU21.When Aa returns...? When Aa returns from her vacation there will be a drastic change in the landscape in the south-eastern part of the country. A quick morning and evening agoning period to the Swedish town of Sankt HedvigsvÄggen, north of Stockholm, measured some of the effects of this change, which I will here create and explore in more details, in the maps to the left. The map above shows the contour lines at 1, 10, 20, 50 and 100 meters above sea level, respectively. The map below is a bit different: it shows more clearly some of the changes in the landscape in the last few weeks and months. So, here we can see new light-color landscapes to the north-west, and the yellowish color indicates water regions, where the seabed is not usually dry, but covered by water. The map above shows that the overall water level is higher, compared to what it was a few months ago. The locations on the map above are, from left to right, Mikäppärä in the north, the city of Munkedal, Norrviken, Nynäshamn in the north-eastern part of Stockholm, and Sankt HedvigsvÄggen in the south-eastern part of the country, north of Stockholm. Then, in the map below, note the difference in the color scheme: dark-colors are areas where the water is deeper than normal, light-colors are where the water is deeper than normal, light-colors are where the water is deeper than normal – and where there are in many cases piles of large rocks or boulders. Map: Aa's return (2) Map: Aa's return (3) Finally, here is the same map, but this time in grey: the colors indicate elevations, and thus it is a "topography" map, which we will look at in the next post., which is equivalent to that of the A2 astrolabe, but more accurate than that of [@1980NewA...44..129S]. The error is 0.006% on the numerical solution, which would be smaller than the last digit of the calculated figure in [@1980NewA...44..129S]. 6d1f23a050
