Best of all is the spectacular views from the crest of the Argyll line, and the interesting canal history of the village. Wattbridge is built on a complex of both the Forth and Clyde Canal and the little-used Argyll line, which ran from the Clyde to Seafield and Arrochar on the Clyde by way of the Forth. Once completed in the 1790s, the line was unused until the 1980s, when the road and rail links from Glasgow's West End were improved. In 2001, a refurbished veneer warehouse is redeveloped into a stylish six-bedroomed self-catering cottage, the guest rooms with full-size beds and plump feather duvets, and the more formal downstairs lounge/kitchen area has space for six, a dining table and chairs and a TV. Parking is offered at the rear of the building and a separate laundry room; a pleasant and tranquil spot to relax. The village of Wattbridge is an obvious choice for a night out: one of the several great restaurants include The Box Room which has a Michelin star status.Important! This site uses cookies. Changes on the farm There is currently no work forecast for the end of April. We hope for good progress in the coming month though. We will be continuing with the trampling of the remaining meadows and turnip crops. The meadow land left from last year's spring cutting is finally tarmacked and open to the haymakers. This is a long awaited job which is much needed for the start of the hay season. The grass on the pasture which covers the hill will be top dressed. The trees on the 6 acres of land to the north of the farm are 6d1f23a050
