in the grand scheme of things, contra has been around for a very long time. this series of titles has been released on multiple consoles and systems for more than 30 years. and over those years, the contra games have remained one of the most memorable side-scrolling shoot-em-up games of all time. now, 30 years later, contra is back in the form of the contra anniversary collection. once again, you'll be able to play this classic game on your nintendo switch. this is a great opportunity to revisit this time-tested classic and see if you can still keep up with the action. and now, a contra veteran like me can get some company as we blast our way through the different levels. play contra today and see what it has to offer! now, to be completely fair, contra probably would not have been as successful as it was if not for the nes. there is nothing more memorable in gaming than the nes, and the whole contra series on the nes is the reason for that. once you play contra on the nintendo switch, youll see why. contra is a fantastic game that deserves to be played again on the nintendo switch. if youre a fan of the game, pick it up. if youre new to contra, pick it up. you will not regret it. the battle of the side-scrolling shooter games continues. and this time, its on the nintendo switch. this is contra in all its nes glory. and as a contra veteran, i can tell you that is a very good thing. contra is a game that is very similar to its original version on the nes. however, in order to be able to play it on a large screen, it has been brought to life with hd graphics. and while its not the best graphic quality i have ever seen on the system, its still a quality game to play. if you are a contra fan, pick this game up. you wont be disappointed.

Super Contra Nes 30 Lives

the player starts out with three lives. like in super c, the first is obtained by crossing the start line. the second lives are obtained by crossing the start line again at the end of each level. this is one of the last nes titles that have this method of progression. i can't think of any other nes titles that can be completed with just the three lives. the last life is obtained by completing the game without losing a single life. there is no health bar to show how much the player has left, but if the player loses a life, their life counter resets to three. if the player loses all their lives, the game ends. the player can jump in any direction when in the air or using the barrier. the invincibility power-up lasts for a short time and gives the player a little extra protection. the player can select the direction the bullets fly in when holding the weapon. you can fire straight or diagonally. the spread gun can fire in all four directions. the laser gun can only fire in front of the character. the flame gun can fire in all directions like the laser gun, but it also can shoot flames in the front and rear. the original contra games could only fire in the front. these shots also inflict damage. if the bullets hit an enemy, the enemy explodes and the shot takes damage. unlike contra and super c, the player can only fire one weapon at a time. if a shot hits an enemy, the weapon is automatically replaced with the other one. the power-ups are still fairly simple. the player can either grab a power-up, or destroy a certain number of enemy soldiers to get a power-up. most power-ups can be destroyed with a single shot. like contra and super c, the player can grab a second power-up. the new one can take the place of any previously obtained power-up. 5ec8ef588b
