after the hindu marriage act , 1956 was introduced, that section dealt with maintenance and now the entire hindu adoption and maintenance act , 1956 is applicable for maintenance. some changes are made in this act. hindus have also adopted children with other religions like the muslims. in such cases, the law is applied, as applicable, under the indian succession act, 1925. maintenance to the child is normally available if the child is not of hindu community. the other provision of the section 18 of the dv act deals with the provisions of maintenance of children. it provides for maintenance of a wife of child-bearing age for a reasonable time for bearing her children. section 18a provides for maintenance in case of miscarriage of the child due to negligence. it is not for the courts to inquire whether the wife is medically fit for bearing a child. however, as far as the husband is concerned, he is bound to provide maintenance for a wife or child-bearing age. section 2 of the hindu marriage act, 1955 provides for divorce on the ground of mental cruelty. the expression “desertion” of the wife before the birth of the child and its effects on the child is dealt with in section 13 of the hindu adoptions and maintenance act, 1956. section 13a deals with the rights of child conceived by means of artificial insemination. section 3 of the hindu women’s rights to property act, 1955 gives rights to a wife to her own property acquired during marriage. this is not a statutory provision for widows but for the rights of a wife.
