Given a Stack>, I need to check every element for it.members and assert every element for it.members is also a pointer to the object in question. It's important that I not only get all the members, but that all the members are guaranteed to be pointers to the object in question. public void checkElements(Stack> stack) { for (LinkedList element : stack.values()) { for (MyObject p : element.members) { if (!(p instanceof MyObject)) { throw new AssertionError(); } } } } If I don't have to worry about the nested for loop, this is an acceptable solution. Another version without the nested loop looks like this, public void checkElements(Stack> stack) { for (LinkedList element : stack.values()) { List list = new ArrayList(element.size()); for (MyObject p : element.members) { list.add(p); } for (MyObject o : list) { if (!(o instanceof MyObject)) { throw new AssertionError(); } } } }
